WHAT ABOUT COVID-19?

New businesses flourish during economic downturns. For example, in the US, new businesses sprouted at a rate of 60,000 a month in 2009 following the GFC, compared to 40,000 a month in 2007.

Just look at the following tech businesses that launched, raised capital, and grew during the 2008 great recession:

- Dropbox US$6 million Series A, October 2008
 - Airbnb US$600,000 seed, April 2009
 - Uber US$250,000 seed, August 2009
- Square US$10 million Series A, November 2009

We want to help chart the path to recovery and drive early stage investment.
